Praxis Framework™

Training & Certification

Praxis™

Demonstrate your knowledge of Praxis:
the first framework to integrate projects, programmes and portfolios.

Praxis is a free, community-driven framework which can help individuals and organizations realise the intended benefits of projects, programmes and portfolios.

Combining the four pillars of effective project delivery (Knowledge, Method, and Capability Maturity), Praxis is the first framework to integrate projects, programmes and portfolios into a single guide.

By covering the full breadth of guidance needed for effective project, programme and portfolio management within a single framework, Praxis training and certification represents an efficient approach to learning project and programme management best practice.

You would need to take at least three separate project and programme management certifications to reach the breadth of guidance provided by Praxis. The contents of alternative courses often overlap, forcing you to study duplicated themes and terminologies.

Accredited training and certification will help individuals to:

▶ Deliver projects, programmes and portfolios successfully utilising a comprehensive framework.

▶ Understand project and programme functions plus the processes and documentation used to manage lifecycle phases.

▶ Develop and maintain an effective project or programme delivery infrastructure in a decreased timescale.

▶ Apply and tailor Praxis to their organization by inserting their process model, templates and content into the framework.

▶ Understand the similarities and differences between Praxis and other prominent frameworks and methodologies such as PRINCE2®, MSP® and the APM Body of Knowledge.

▶ Continually develop: the entire framework is available online, for free, empowering individuals to undertake professional development wherever and whenever needed.

Who Is It For?

Praxis training and certification is designed for current and aspiring project and programme managers and team members.
